PROBE ON FOOD IS COMING

Attorney-General to Investigate Discrepancies Between Wholesale and Retail Prices

The House Committee on Rules voted today to report favorably the order directing Attorney-General H. C. Attwill to investigate "the discrepancies between wholesale and retail prices of foods."

This order was introduced by Wendell Phillips Thorp, of Boston, father of the Old Age Pension bill, as a result of the Boston American's expose of food prices.

William Randolph Hearst and the Boston American were warmly praised at the hearing before the House Committee on Rules on the Thorp food bill.

The order also directs the Attorney-General to prosecute the offenders "if the investigation discloses that the high prices are the result of a conspiracy among the dealers."

SECOND PROBE PLANNED.

The order will be reported for action in the House next Monday. The favorable report of the committee gives prospect of a second or State investigation, in addition to the federal government probe now being

Shaw Aims to Aid Wilson and League Through Articles in Hearst Papers

London, Feb. 7.—The Daily News prints the following open letter from George Bernard Shaw:

"I have received the following cable from the Managing Editor of the New York Tribune:

"'Hearst's papers heavily display a series of George Bernard Shaw articles as unmasking English plot to destroy Germany. Does Shaw know this stuff is being used as anti-English and pro-German propaganda? Please ask him.

"'I shall be glad to hear from you if there are any observations you would care to make on the matter.'

"I have replied to the New York Tribune as follows:

"'My articles were written to support President Wilson and show the urgent need for a league of nations and the limits within which it is practicable.

"'They were anxiously scanned by the British censorship and passed by it. Mr. Hearst got them because he was intelligent enough to ask for them.

"'There is no "unmasking" in the matter. In 1914 I told the truth about the war, as far as it was then advis-

Rush Peace Plans on League and Labor

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Paris, Feb. 7.—President Wilson and Premier Lloyd George of England, the two great Anglo-Saxon leaders, conferred this morning. It is understood that they discussed the Russian situation and the League of Nations as well as the knotty problems of the peace conference generally.

The plan for the League of Nations is being rapidly pushed to completion. It is now hoped that it will be possible to complete the plan in time for its ratification by a plenary session of the peace conference on Saturday or Wednesday next. Just prior to President Wilson's departure for the United States.

BOLSHEVIKI AID FOR PEACE.

It is considered certain today that the Soviet government of Russia (Bolshevikl) will eventually be represented at the peace conference.

The provisional acceptance of the plan for a conference to be held by representatives of the Bolshevik regime and the allies on Prinkipo Island in the Sea of Marmora, is now satisfactory to certain States, but all admit that it marks a big step forward.

The Russian conference probably will be one of the questions discussed by the representatives of the "Big Five" powers when they meet at the foreign office again tomorrow. Later is held that when the Marmora conference is held, arrangements of some kind can be made whereby the Soviets and other Russian factions can send representatives to Paris to accept a plan for a government in Russia representative of the whole country.

WANT ARMIES REDUCED.

The Americans were deeply interested in today's session of the Supreme Inter-Allied War Council. One question for discussion was the size of the armies of occupation required to hold the surrendered enemy territory pending the completion of the peace treaty. President Wilson is urging that the United States force be reduced to a minimum. He is frankly telling the conferees that the United States wants to get its soldiers home without any further delay.

He was returning from the South Station, where he had obtained the money, and had just turned into Hawley place when two men jumped out from a doorway and seized him. They apparently expected to find the money on him. Getting the money, they made a quick getaway.

One of the men is described as about 50, five feet six inches tall weighing 135 pounds. Light complexioned, wearing light colored clothing and a cap. Wilcox failed to get a description of his other assailant.

DOLLAR CUT IN COST OF COAL BY ALL DEALERS

The mild weather, combined with an improvement in labor conditions, and lower freight rates, has resulted in a general cut of $1 per ton in the price of coal by practically all dealers in Boston. The break in price was first announced by the Hatch-Rider Brothers Company several weeks ago. This concern was followed by the Metropolitan Coal Company and the other companies soon fell in line. The new scale of prices brings coal now down to $11 a ton with the exception of pea coal, which is $10.

WILL REACH PORT ABOUT MARCH 12

At local Army Headquarters today it was stated that the order of Lieutenant-General Liggett relieving the twenty-sixth division from service with the First Army indicates that the Yankee Division is ready to come home. It passes out of the control of the leader of the First Army, going under the jurisdiction of the commanding general of the embarkation port.

Governor Coolidge today sent the following message to Secretary of War Baker:

"The people of Massachusetts would be very much gratified if Boston were made a port of debarkation for the 26th Division when it returns to America. And as soon as it is possible to make public the expected time of its arrival would be helpful to have the information. The people are desirous of entertaining the men of this division and of having the privilege of seeing them parade in this city and Commonwealth."

By BERT FORD.

Ecommoy, France, Feb. 7.—The 26th Division of the United States army—the Yankee division—will soon be relieved from duty. The men were full of rejoicing today, feeling that at last they would soon be on their way home.

A general order was posted, part of which follows:

"Pursuant to telegraphic instruction from great headquarters, the 26th Division, upon the establishment of its headquarters in the Le Mans embarkation area, is relieved of duty with this army."

Lieutenant-General Liggett, commanding the First American Army, issued an order which added:

POLICE TO RID PAWTUCKET OF 'WILD WOMEN' IN PURITY CAMPAIGN

UNDESIRABLES DRIVEN OUT IN 'CLEANUP' CRUSADE

Pawtucket, R. I., Feb. 7.—"Wild women, go away from here," is the advice of Chief of Police Charles H. Hill, who says the sweepings of Providence's underworld are drifting to Pawtucket.

This city is in the throes of a campaign to free Pawtucket of "wild women and undesirables," under the vigorous leadership of Chief Hill. It is the expressed intention of Chief Hill to clean the city of its feminine night walkers and solicitors and all-night cafe loungers no matter at what cost.

Every Pawtucket "cooch" has been ordered by Chief Hill to gather in any woman or girl who cannot give a satisfactory answer as to her business in cafes and all night lunch rooms and to "play no favorites."

SIX GIRLS ARRAIGNED.

In the Tenth District Court a number of pretty girls, whose ages ranged from nineteen to twenty-four, explained to Judge Lester W. Millman their prolonged stays and their actions toward men in various cafes and lunch rooms of Pawtucket. The girls were products of the initial haul of the police dragnet.

All six of the girls were released on bail in small amounts and weeded their way out of the courtroom, which was crowded with women and girls. Those who know the workings of Pawtucket's underworld intimate that there will be no further prosecutions of the girls.

But, notwithstanding, Chief Hill says he has set his shoulder to the wheel and is going through with his campaign for a spotless and wild-womanless town. To the girls he pointed out the error of their ways and advised them to go west, east, north or south as their inclinations directed, at any rate, to go away from Pawtucket.

BOSTON GIRL APPEALS.

Miss May Ritchie, twenty-one of Boston, appealed the sentence of six months given her by Judge Millman. Miss Catherine Fitz, nineteen, of Attleboro was placed on probation. Miss Arebelth Mann, twenty-four of Attleboro, told a story that did not satisfy the judge and he ordered her appearance at the hearing February 10th. Ruth McCoy, twenty-two of Providence, admitted that she had wandered from the path and appealed from a fine. Amelia Trembley, twenty-four of Providence, was ordered to appear at the February 10th hearing and Miss Melvin O'Malley, twenty-two was placed on probation.

WARNING BY JUDGE.

"These girls must seek new fields and other fields than Pawtucket," was Judge Millman's parting shot to the girls.

Chief of Police Hill said to the American:

"I will continue to round up these girls and take them in if I have to fill police headquarters from roof to cellar. We cannot permit wild and undesirable women to fill about the city all night at will. I have ordered the police to gather in every woman and girl who cannot give a satisfactory answers as to her business in cafes and all-night lunch rooms or restaurants. I have received many complaints regarding these undesirable women and I propose to drive them out, playing no favorites and gathering in every woman who cannot give the officer a satisfactory answer.

"After a few more days of this I expect that some of these undesirables will wake up to the fact that this is an honest-to-goodness crusade and that when we say 'stay away from here' we mean it."

INFLUX FROM PROVIDENCE.

"Since Providence a few days ago commenced a house cleaning in a desire to get rid of a lot of people who are not doing the town any good, they naturally drifted over here. The result has been an influx of strange women who have flocked in here and have been loitering around cafes and all night lunch rooms accosting men and otherwise making themselves a nuisance. It has got to stop, that's all. 'I have also ordered the holders of liquorice and other licenses not to allow these women to use their places for loitering. Any cafe proprietor who wants to help me clean up this town has only to watch his patrons.

"I want it understood that we are not going to accept the sweepings of Providence. These women must move further on."

'L' DIVIDEND PROTEST FOR FULL COURT

Judge De Courcy Hears Demurrer Arguments on Payment of $1,500,000

Judge De Courcy of the Supreme Court today heard arguments on a demurrer of the defendant in the petition of James J. Mellen and ten others of Boston against Charles L. Burrill, State treasurer, in which the petitioners asked that Mr. Burrill be commanded not to pay over to the trustees of the Boston Elevated Railway Company approximately $1,500,000 on July 1 for the payment of dividends and deficiencies in the operation of the road.

Assistant Attorney-General Hitchcock claimed that one or more private citizens whose interests were not directly affected had no right to bring a proceeding to compel a public officer to perform a duty, but that he should be done by the attorney-general. The only other parties who could raise the question of the constitutionality of the statute under which trustees of the Elevated road were appointed, were the Public Service Commissioners, the Treasurer of the Commonwealth in his own behalf, and a minority stockholder of the Elevated Company.

It also was possible, he said, that cities and towns obliged to contribute money for the operation of the road had a right to raise the constitutional question.

Clarence W. Rowley, counsel for the petitioners, said that it was brought under the common law, which gave such right to one or more citizens.

Judge De Courcy, after stating that he had grave doubts if the pending proceedings would settle the main question which undoubtedly affected a interest wanted determined, requested that the facts be agreed upon and the case reported to the full court. More speedy results Judge De Courcy thought, would be secured in such a course than by deciding the present petition and having the full court say that it did not sufficiently raise the constitutional question.

Miss Myrna Pickett, surrounded by her friends and with her gifts piled on the table in front of her, was cutting her twenty-first birthday cake when the telephone in the house at No. 15 Van Winkle street, Dorchester, rang. She left the room and, after a time returned again, her face beaming.

"It's Louis," she said quietly, "he wants me to save a piece of cake for him as he will be a week or so late for my party."

Louis Pickett is the only sister from New Jersey as soon as he stepped off the transport that brought his from Brest. The family were unaware of his coming and thought him with the army of occupation. The cake was cut and a piece carefully wrapped up for the brother, together with a little note from each girl present.

26TH DIVISION ORDERED HOME

"The Twenty-sixth Division, after joining this army early in August, 1917, participated in the following operations:

"St. Mihiel—The Twenty-sixth Division attacked on the front south of Les Eparges on September 12 (1918), driving the enemy from St. Remy and Dommartin and reaching Vigneulles the same day. Early on the 13th the division pushed eastward and occupied and held the line of heights about Hannonville and Thillot, with advanced detachments near Doncourt, until October 8.

"Meuse River and Argonne Forest operations—The Twenty-sixth Division joined the French 17th Corps east of Verdun on October 16 and took over a sector which it held until the armistice was signed on November 11. During this period the division engaged in the following local attacks, in addition to defensive engagements incident to holding the sector: October 23, capturing the place between hill No. 301 and hill No. 34; October 24 to the 27, against Bois Dormant and Belleau Bois; November 10, against Ville, Devant, Chaumont and Hermes Bois and Ville Bois and Jadanne.

"The army commander takes this occasion to express his appreciation for the services of this division—a part of the combat forces of this army—and wishes it godspeed upon the final phase of its participation in the activities of the expeditionary forces."

No definite date has been set for the sailing of the Twenty-sixth Division. This depends upon the transportation facilities. Several divisions are ahead of the Twenty-sixth, but it will likely reach port about March 15.

All the members of the Twenty-sixth are in fine health and spirits.

"'I was hysterically contradicted by all the dupes and ignoramuses who were hampering their own side by their boyish romances and I was overwhelmingly confirmed, first by Mr. Winston Churchill on behalf of the British navy and by Lord Haldane on behalf of the British army, both forces having been accused of unpreparedness (which meant treachery to France) by the romancers; then by the Harmsworth press and the National Review reprinting their anti-German articles with a triumphant shout of "We told you so"; later on by the publication of official documents brought to light by the war in Brussels; again by the crash of the Czarist regime in Russia, and finally by the election speeches of Mr. Asquith and the complete disclosure by Lord Haldane on the morrow of the polling day.

"'I had I never written a word, the truth would still be naked to all Europe. The truth is not discreditable under the circumstances. If it were otherwise there would be no need for a League of Nations to alter the circumstances, and President Wilson would be in Europe on a fool's errand.

"'The popular romantic fictions about the war are now not only unnecessary and ridiculous, but highly mischievous, for nothing solid can be achieved at Versailles until all the cards are on the table and all idle recrimination is dropped.

"'I do not understand the allusions to anti-British and pro-German propaganda. The war is over, the allies have won, German kaiserism and German militarism are overthrown and the German people are starving and helpless.

"'I assumed that the news had reached America. Am I to believe that it has reached Mr. Hearst only and that all the other newspape magnates are still dreading German victory?

"'But even if I did believe it (and nobody knows better than I that Rip Van Winkle has left many descendants in the United States), I should not base my articles on belated popular delusions instead of on my own carefully-verified knowledge. I did not gain the ear of America by that easy method, and I have no intention of changing my habits in my time of life.

"'I may add that I am not responsible for Mr. Hearst's headlines (if they are his), but if they are more sensational than my own I shall be surprised.

"'My articles are meant to be read. When there is trouble it comes always from persons who do not read them.'"

FOURTH ARREST FOR DRAFT 'FRAUDS'

A fourth arrest was made today in connection with the draft difficulties in the district of Local Draft Board No. 17. Samuel Saklad, brother of Elias Saklad, who had been previously arrested, was taken into custody in the corridor of the Federal Building by Deputy United States Marshal James Tuck.

He is charged with an alleged conspiracy in connection with a false attestation on a draft paper filed with that board. He was the clerk of the board, of which his brother was a member. All four of the arrested men, Elias Saklad, Attorney Max Shain, Attorney Isaac Horenstein and Samuel Saklan were arraigned before United States Commissioner Hayes.

Each entered a plea of not guilty and the commissioner ordered that the hearings be held on February 15, the Elias Saklad was released in $5,500 bail, Samuel Saklad in $2,500 and the other two in $1,000 each. Samuel Saklad's case is not directly connected with the other cases.

The complaint against Elias Saklad, Horenstein and Shain allege conspiracy to enable a registrant to evade the requirements of the draft act and to obtain a classification different from the one to which he was entitled. It is further alleged that $126 was paid by the registrant to Shain, who gave a portion of it to Elias Saklad.

Horenstein, who is a justice of the peace as well as an attorney, is alleged by the government to have made a false attestation of the affidavits upon which were based the registrant and others in the case and that he attested them as having been subscribed and sworn to before him, whereas the contention of the government is that the makers were not present at the time the attestations were made.

TAFT FAVORS LEAGUE BACKED BY FORCE TO INSURE WORLD PEACE

PETERS WELCOMES DELEGATES TO "KEYNOTE SESSION"

The League of Nations was warmly endorsed by President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard, ex-President William Howard Taft, Governor Calvin Coolidge, Mayor Andrew J. Peters, Dr. Henry Van Dyke, former minister to Holland, and Dr. Lemuel H. Murlin at the "keynote session" of the League of Free Nations, New England Congress, which opened today at Tremont Temple.

It was for such a league, said the speakers, that our heroes fought abroad; and such a league is necessary to complete the triumph of the allies over Germany.

REDUCTION OF ARMAMENT.

Ex-President Taft explained that reduction of armament had not been advocated in the American plans for the league because it was thought questionable that its inclusion among the fundamental principles would secure adhesion to the plans.

"But we do not wish to have it understood that if, by general agreement, a reduction of armament can be achieved we are not thoroughly in favor of it," said the former President. "With respect to those nations engaged in dictating the treaty, we might as well face the fact that we have beaten Germany to an unconditional surrender, and that those who won the war are to dictate the treaty.

"Our purpose in this war has been to cure the German people. Oh, the Hohenzollerns were very easily gotten rid of. Their shadow they seem now, how unimportant. They were merely a type, they represented the cult of philosophy, but it was the German people who were indoctrinated with this false philosophy, and who had a wonderful capacity for applying it that threatened the world and threatened us, and our purpose in this war was to cure the German people of this false philosophy.

"We have only gotten half way through that cure. We have hit them over the head with a club, and must retain that club for future use, should the cure we have thus far effected not seem completely satisfactory."

THE NEED OF FORCE.

"We are launching in Middle and Eastern Europe from a half dozen to eight or ten clubs, and if these nations are to serve the purpose intended of curtailing Germany they must be informed in stability, regarding the enforcement policies of the league, he added.

"What we seek to get is the restraining influence of force, and not an obligation on the part of the nations to meet an exigency that arises so that if force is needed to stop a world conflagration, we find ourselves bound in the first place to make our contribution with the rest.

"I think that instead of calling on the United States to administer Constantinople, because it is so far away there should be an agent of the league to do that in order to insure impartiality."

Henry Van Dyke, former minister to Holland, said in part:

"It seems to me the main interest of our country in this war has been to fight for peace on earth; and the greatest benefit America can get will be a League of Nations pledged to prevent if possible the recurrance of another war like it."

He referred to objections and difficulties raised in this country to the league of Nations by "the same bloodthirsty civilians who were dissatisfied with the crushing terms of the German capitulation."

BENEFITS FOR GERMANY.

He said that Germany should share the benefits of the league. "If she becomes good—for its benefit are for all the world." Before Germany can become a member of the League, however, he said, she must present and prove her repentance by works of restitution and reparation; she must get a solid government directly responsible to the people.

Governor Coolidge, in opening the meeting, said that America for almost the 1st time, was striving to think internationally.

"To the past we have given our attention to our own domestic problems. But we are out in the world now."

Mayor Peters welcomed the delegates as men of wide vision. He said the League of Nations was first of all a league of democracies.

"No royalty sits at the council table in Paris," he declared. "Of the new nations, Poland and Bohemia are republics. Jugo-Slavia may keep a Serbian king. Greece has banished her potentate. China is testing herself under parliamentary forms. Even Germany, in the hope of aiding sion to the league, has adopted the institutions, and, let us hope, a little of the spirit of popular government."

MRS. BEATRICE F. R. HALE, who tomorrow addresses League of Nation women at luncheon at the Somerset.

WELCOMED BY COMMITTEE.

The ceremonies unofficially opened when a reception committee met the special train bringing ex-President Taft, James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany; Secretary of War Baker and other distinguished visitors.

After his address at Tremont Temple, ex-President Taft spoke before the Massachusetts Legislature on behalf of resolutions favoring the League of Nations, at a luncheon at the Hotel Brunswick, at the luncheon of the New England Editors at Young's Hotel and at the City Club.

CAPTURED GUN TO STAY ON COMMON

Governor Marcus H. Holcomb of Connecticut wants the 22d millimeter gun destined for Boston Common, sent to Hartford.

The governor wrote Major-General Clarence R. Edwards formerly commanding the Twenty-Sixth Division, and now of the Northeastern Department, calling his attention to the fact that this gun was captured by the 102nd Infantry of the Twenty-Sixth Division at Epuele, near Troyon, on July 22. As the 102nd Infantry is made up of the boys from Connecticut, it is natural for the gun to go to Connecticut. This was the gist of the request by Governor Holcomb.

"This gun was ordered sent to Boston because Boston is the center of New England, a sort of a capital city," explained the general.

"I do not know whether it can be proven that the capture of this gun is due entirely to the 102nd Infantry. But we'll not argue about that. There are enough guns taken by this division to decorate every city park in New England.

"I have ordered this gun to be placed on Boston Common after permission is given by Governor Coolidge, thinking that the historic spot would be the most suitable place for it.

"There's no use disputing about guns. Governor Holcomb can have his pick of guns when transports get through their part of the work of carrying over troops."

This gun was first taken, after it was captured by the Americans, and placed upon the salvage list of the Pyrenees. It was recovered after four days' search by Lieutenant Jacobs of the 101st Engineers. General Edwards then sent for it upon it and when permission was granted by the War Department ordered it to be sent to Boston. It is now stored in Watertown arsenal.

French Ask Reform of Calendar at Peace Session

By International News Service.

Paris, Feb. 7.—The grave mathematical error that has been committed in the calendar since the time of Julius Caesar, and which it has reformed the calendar, if the French Academy of Sciences has its way. The question of dead dating through the years of Julius and Julius calendars and other anomalies has troubled many generations of scientists, and it is felt that this opportunity for settling the matter for all time should not be allowed to pass.

The Academy proposes to lay two plans before the conference. One divides the year into thirteen months of twenty-eight days and four weeks, accounting for 364 days and leaving another day to be added. This would be a day for every leap year.

The other plan is to divide the year into four equal quarters, composed of one month of 31 days and two months of 30 days, rounding out the year with undated days as in the first scheme. This plan seems to be favored.

HALL MAY TAKE UP RESIDENCE IN LAWRENCE

Lawrence, Feb. 7.—Henry B. Hall, lay preacher, who was acquitted by a Maine jury of the charge of wife murder, may take up permanent residence here.

Hall arrived in South Lawrence from Portland and was met at the railroad station by his nephew, Arthur H. Hall of No. 29 Brookfield street, and the latter's wife. Hall was accompanied by the Maine couple by his nephew, sister and two cousins, Samuel D. and William D. Hall of this city.

Arthur Hall, speaking for the acquitted preacher, stated that Hall would probably remain here for some time, or at least until he had recovered his strength.

Hall refused to pose for the camera men and would not say what his plans were. He remained with his wife, grasping her hand, while his sister Mary swung alongside of the party. Samuel and William Hall, both employed as engineers on the Boston & Maine railroad, carried Hall's luggage. Hall walked with difficulty, leaning on his mother's arm.

When the party arrived at the Brookfield street home, a photographer's car was in the way. Hall raised his arm to shield himself, but dropped it quickly as if too weary and exhausted to protest.

LAXITY CHARGED IN BANKING AUDIT

Shake-Up in State Board Predicted as Result of Market Trust Thefts

An investigation leading to a shake-up in the state Bank Commissioner's office may result from the theft of $171,000 from the Market Trust Company, Brighton, by its assistant treasurer, Luther B. Hayden.

Laxity in methods in examining the books of several city banks have been discovered following the investigation of the Hayden case. It is now possible to conceal the large thefts of money from the Brighton institution.

SENTENCE NEXT WEEK.

Hayden pleaded guilty to the larceny of $171,000 of the bank's funds when arraigned before Chief Justice Aiken today in the Suffolk Superior Court. He will be sentenced a week from today.

Assistant District Attorney Swift in the absence of the head of the trust company was opposed by the counsel for Hayden, Joseph Walker. Walker contended that Hayden was charging Hayden with being as an individual, and the other charges with being one of a joint office.

Hayden was arraigned before the court on counts in the indictment to be tested. The prisoner pleaded guilty to one count, the reading of the indictment was dispensed, and Justice Aiken postponed for sentence. Justice Aiken asked Hayden if he was ready for sentence and the prisoner asked a delay of a week, which was granted.

Hayden's stealings were carried on several years despite examiners from Commissioner Thorndike's office annually reporting the audit of the bank's books as correct.

This happened as was disclosed today by the following system which was explained by Bank Commissioner Thorndike.

SAME MAN FOR BOTH JOBS.

Mr. Thorndike notified several city banking institutions that after an audit of their books were required his suggestion was that some one of his examiners be employed in his personal capacity for the fees for such examination to be paid to the commissioner's department.

This suggestion was acted upon by several institutions, among them the Market Trust Company.

Hayden, in the audit of the books required by law became necessary. Bank commissioner Thorndike would send the same man in many instances to audit the books.

"This method has enabled the bank commissioner's department the certainty of a thorough investigation insofar as a guarantee of depositors was demanded today.

DANGEROUS PRACTICE.

"Such a practice as Bank Commissioner Thorndike has tolerated, of having the same man from his office conduct a private as well as official audit of banking institutions is fraught with dangers," said District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier today.

"By tolerating such a system of examination the bank commissioner in his outside parties looking toward the appointment of depositors' staff," Mr. Pelletier. "I understand that this system of auditing has prevailed in other states and that it is a bad practice and ought to be stopped.

"Such examiner employed by the State and paid for their time by the money of the taxpayers ought to give their entire time to their office. Furthermore, a State department ought not to seek to make income as the Bank Commissioner's department has done by accepting examiners' fees from banking institutions. A State department ought especially one designed to protect the savings of citizens, ought to sacrifice everything else for the protection of these savings."

It became known today that Hayden's method of checking up on the deposits from which his book money was to keep a set of books a month behind the time he had tampered with.

Bank Commissioner Thorndike, the officials of the trust company had ample warnings and opportunity to deprive Hayden of the chance to loot the bank.

HAD ACCESS TO BOOKS.

As early as 1917 Commissioner Thorndike made numerous suggestions to the officials of the bank for the improvement of their business methods and safeguarding of their funds. One of the suggestions was to do away with the necessity of deposits and it was said that it would be well to see that the man who received deposits did not have an opportunity to check up or reconcile accounts, but that some other employe of the bank should do this work. It was suggested that the employe who received deposits should remain in their own respective cages and not be permitted to wander at will about the banking room and have free and easy access to the books of the banks.

1,310,000 Sign Plea for 6 Months' Pay to Service Men

SENTENCED TWO YEARS AFTER GIRL'S DEATH

Providence, Feb. 7.—Although over two years have passed since 13-year-old Dorothy Hopkins, the school-girl victim of a hit-and-run driver, died, it was not until today that sentence was passed on the driver in connection with the death.

Walter A. Dexter, 20, a pool room keeper, was sentenced to serve not less than one nor more than two years in the state prison and was committed to the custody of the sheriff of Providence county, who was ordered to convey him there today. Dexter pleaded guilty in a modified charge, and was sentenced to serve from one to two years in the state prison.

When Johnson's case was called Assistant Attorney General A. A. Capotosto and Judge Dorius that Johnson's case had been before the Supreme Court; that Johnson has been in jail since December, 1918, and that the witnesses in the case have scattered. The defendant, said the Assistant Attorney General, was willing to enter a plea of guilty and accept sentence. John Dorius thereupon imposed the seven-months sentence in the jail of the Boston soldiers who have acquitted themselves so honorably in France.

"I am not surprised," said former Governor Calvin Coolidge, when he heard of Colonel Logan's reinstatement, "I am exceedingly glad to receive the good news."

General Clarence R. Edwards, former commander of the 26th Division, was particularly pleased. "Delighted to hear it," he said, when the news was announced to him in his office at the headquarters of the Department of the Northeast.

Mrs. Lawrence J. Logan, mother of the Colonel's wife, said: "I am delighted over the Colonel's reinstatement. I have always thought that an investigation would prove that he was wrongfully relieved from the command of the 101st, and am glad that he is back with his old regiment."

PSYCHOLOGICAL TESTS FOR HARVARD ARE URGED

Herbert S. Langfeld, well known Harvard psychologist, believes that psychological tests should replace the ordinary entrance examinations at Harvard, if it is found that they can be safely put in practice. "The tests will probably eliminate the 'grouch' who sometimes manages to slip through college gates," Professor Langfeld declared. "I know one of Harvard's most brilliant scholars who fell down on mental test because he was too warmed up to the subject in hand.

He was in bed a month. All water was shut off and the town had to depend on the old-fashioned pump. When he first appeared on the streets he was given a welcome that none of the business men, ministers or bankers had ever received.

"There will be a great time in the old town when the 101st and Colonel Logan get back" is the word being flashed about the city by members of the 101st Auxiliary, comprising mothers, sisters and wives of officers of the Boston soldiers who have acquitted themselves so honorably in France.

"I am not surprised," said former Governor Calvin Coolidge, when he heard of Colonel Logan's vindication. "I am exceedingly glad to receive the good news."

General Clarence R. Edwards, former commander of the 26th Division, was particularly pleased. "Delighted to hear it," he said, when the news was announced to him in his office at the headquarters of the Department of the Northeast.

BOLSHEVIKI TO HAVE PLACE IN PEACE COUNCIL, PARIS BELIEVES

SOVIET AGREEMENT MARKS BIG STEP FORWARD

It is understood also that the American position is opposed to all suggestion for the complete occupation of Germany, the Americans evidently taking the attitude that the existing Berlin government is strong enough to control its own people, but is not strong enough to attempt to renew the war.

Aggressive Attitude of Germany Arousing Suspicion of Entente

By ROBERT J. PREW.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Paris, Feb. 7.—The aggressive attitude towards the entente, which has developed in Germany since the defeat of the Spartacans, was among the questions discussed at the meeting of the supreme inter-allied war council at Versailles today.

The existing German government will be called upon to explain the meaning of the advance of German troops against Poland and why obstacles are being put in the way of supplies towards Poland through Danzig, as was stipulated in the armistice terms.

When the allies notified the Ebert Government at Berlin that they intended to send a mission into Germany to draw up a list of the allied properties that had been seized, the German government refused the necessary passports until the French grip on German property in Alsace and Lorraine was loosened.

The movement in Germany against letting go of Alsace and Lorraine also is growing in strength, it is being allowed, to gather force also.

Alfred Reifferscheid, member of the old imperial German government, has declared the allies must not expect any indemnity.

All of these developments are held to constitute a new provocative attitude with which the war council alone is competent to deal.

Peace conference discussions were suspended for the day in order to allow the war council to consider these matters.

France May Waive Its Claim for Compulsory Arbitration in League

By International News Service.

Paris, Feb. 7.—France was reported today to be willing to waive her objections to compulsory arbitration in the constitution of the League of Nations on the assurance that the United States will take such action as will make the league, in President Wilson's words, "a vital thing." Above all else, France desires to have Alsace and Lorraine secured against future attacks.

Substantial progress has been made in working out the plan for the league and the committee has been expanded to allow further representation by smaller nations. This move is designed to overcome opposition in the plenary session of the peace conference when a definite plan is adopted and also to overcome certain objections by one or two groups.

There was a meeting of the supreme inter-allied war council today instead of the council of ten.

Naturally the question of compulsory arbitration and the creation of an international police force capable of enforcing the mandates of the League of Nations are the knottiest of the problems facing the conference. It was regarded as almost certain that inclusion of such provisions would soon be included in the final draft with the nations concerned, saying which they shall adopt.

Secretary of State Lansing explained that if economic measures should be finally decided upon as the weapon for enforcing the league's mandates instead of a police force, the United States would be in an excellent position to assist by peaceful means.

The situation today seemed to be as follows: The United States commissioners are urging that all questions if submitted to an international tribunal created by the League of Nations, and it appeared that this suggestion would be adopted. Great Britain, because of the extent of her empire, is likely to have more controversies to settle than the United States or France and for this reason has been opposing compulsory arbitration on all questions.

OBJECTIONS OF AMERICANS.

If mediation as well as arbitration is included in the final draft, the former would not necessarily be binding. France has been objecting to compulsory arbitration unless assured the league should have behind it power that could enforce decisions and at the same time be strong enough to maintain the peace of the world against any power seeking to disturb it.

Whether the United States delegation will go to a conference to get pledges that America will guarantee this force is a question. It is pointed out that Congress is the only American body authorized for the employment of the American forces. The answer of the American delegates to this objection, however, is understood to be this:

All treaties negotiated by the executive branch of the American government are conditional and dependent upon action of Congress for their force. For instance, when the purchase of the Danish West Indies was considered by Secretary of State Lansing, Congress had to furnish the purchase money—$25,000,000.

There is an instance on record. It is said, where Congress has failed to make valid the action of the executive branch in negotiating a treaty which public sentiment strongly demanded.

RETURNED HEROES SEEN IN SCREEN TELEGRAM

A series of pictures of particular interest to New Englanders are appearing in the Screen Telegram No. 6, the news reel put out by the International Film Service and released by the Universal Film Manufacturing Company. These pictures show the arrival of the transport Agamemnon bringing home the boys of the Fifty-first Coast Artillery, composed of soldiers of the New England States. They were among the first Americans to see service abroad, and have added a few modern Bunker Hills and Lexingtons to American history, fighting valiantly to put an end to German militarism. Closeups of Colonel H. M. Mitchell of Newport, R. I., commander of the 51st Coast Artillery, and Captain C. H. Furnas, chief surgeon of the outfit, are shown.

OCHS AND NORTHCLIFFE NOT ON FRIENDLY TERMS

New York, Feb. 7.—Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, and one time friend of Lord Northcliffe, is no longer "speaking terms" with the English publisher. This fact was brought out here at the trial of Jeremiah O'Leary, editor of the now defunct paper "Bull," who is charged with violating the Espionage Act. O'Leary sought to show that the Times was pro-British and un-

BALFOUR SENDS PRAISE OF UNIT TO LOWELL

Says Work of Cabot's Band Has Added Lustre to Fame of Harvard

Dr. Hugh Cabot of Boston, whose title in the English army is that of lieutenant-colonel, because he headed the Harvard Surgical Unit, has handed President Lowell a letter from Arthur J. Balfour, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, which praises the unit in behalf of Great Britain for the surgical work it had completed so thoroughly during the war.

The letter follows:

My dear Mr. President:

Now that the Harvard Medical Unit has fulfilled its noble mission to the British troops in France, may I express the tribute of their undying gratitude. I desire to offer to that splendid organization some expression, however inadequate, of my deep appreciation of the great work that it has performed.

It would have given me the utmost pleasure to have conveyed this message in person when the unit passes through London on its way home to the United States. But this, unfortunately, is denied me, since in mid-January I myself shall be engaged at the Peace Conference in Paris.

May I, therefore, count on your good offices to let every member of the unit know how grateful His Majesty's government feels for the generous offer made and carried out in December, 1916? Through two strenuous and memorable years the work of General Hospital 22, the largest hospital unit serving with the British army, has held a record for skilful and untiring treatment of our wounded. The memory of so much service and self-sacrifice can never pass from us. It will be cherished in perpetuity by the relatives and friends of those whom the Harvard Unit has tended with such admirable devotion.

Let me wish to one and all of our fellow-workers in the war a safe return from the scenes of their labors. They have added lustre even to the fame of Harvard, and have forged a new and enduring link in the bonds of loyal regard by which we should ever be united. Believe me, my dear Mr. President,

ARTHUR JAMES BALFOUR.

CORPORAL LAMPORT'S SOUVENIRS MISSING

Missing a box of German implements of war? Some kind-hearted person volunteered to carry them for Corporal Edward Lamport of No. 70 Faxon street, Newton, during the march of the 26th Coast Artillery Corps from the South Station to Boston Common. But during the parade the kind-hearted person got separated from Corporal Lamport. So did the box of German souvenirs. Corporal Lamport stocked up the souvenirs during the fighting in France, and is anxious to get them back.

WILSON SPEECH CRITICISED IN PARIS PRESS

Says Guarantees of Safety Not Promises of Help Needed by France

By DR. E. J. DILLON.
Special Cable to the Boston American and Philadelphia Public Ledger.
(Copyright by the Ledger Syndicate and issued by the Philadelphia Ledger Company, New York Tribune Company and Boston American.)

Paris, Feb. 7.—A remote haze of gladness and hope was diffused over the political spheres when President Wilson made his memorable entry into the Chamber of Deputies and for the first time came in contact with France's elected representatives.

The chamber was filled with lawgivers and the galleries were decorated with a display of the marvelous creations of French dressmakers worn by fashionable ladies.

Too only drawback to the historic celebration came from the eternal language difficulty. The distinguished guest and delighted hosts expressed themselves like true literary craftsmen with a delicate sense of beauty of style and of weaving melodious phrases, but they appear to have misunderstood each other.

Judging by the press comments, M. Deschanel, president of the Chamber, addressed to Mr. Wilson and Mr. Wilson to M. Deschanel conceptions very different from those which the phraseology employed by each was intended to convey.

The president of the French Chamber laid down a political axiom that the pith and marrow of the new world organization will consist in the effectious protection of France from future attacks and provocations. This can be secured, he said, only by territorial, military, economic and financial guarantees shielding the victims of German ambition from perpetual alarms and by superior guarantees in the guise of a consent of free peoples with efficacious sanctions for the abatement of crimes against the tranquility of the world. Mr. Wilson, however, instead of dwelling upon the military, territorial and economic guarantees, announced that in future whenever France or any other free nation is threatened, the whole world will be ready to come to its assistance.

The French press objects that the whole world may not arrive in time, and that some countries were nearly in too late in 1914. Mr. Wilson's own reading of recent history is also challenged when he says that in answer to France's fateful question, "Who will come to our assistance?"

Premier Venizelos has concluded a masterly exposé of Greece's claims to Constantinople and certain provinces in Asia Minor. If one deducts the number of civil servants and soldiers resident in that city the Greeks are in majority, and their quality is also superior to that of the Turkish and other minorities.

EXAMINED PASSPORTS, CAN'T READ OR WRITE

Paris, Feb. 7.—During the last three years of the war an old Territorial who had been wounded in the leg in the Champagne 1915 offensive was stationed at the Nancy railway station to examine the papers, furloughs and traveling orders of all French soldiers passing through the zone. This old "rat," as the Territorials are called, has just been demobilized and returned to his home. His friends can't get over laughing at the job he held down in Nancy, however, for the "rat" can neither read nor write.

WATCH SHARKS GET MANY VICTIMS

Cheap Jewelers Swindle Hundreds in Sales of Worthless Baubles

A good wrist watch, "guaranteed for five years" but which, worked just thirty-four days, and a "bargain" in rings for which he paid $28, but which is actually worth $8, constitute the results of Joseph Minch's acquaintance with the jewelry sharks of Boston.

He went into a local store to buy a wrist watch for his son in the service. The dealer produced one with which he said was "guaranteed for five years," and the "full value of which" he would allow Minch in case the latter should wish to exchange it. Minch paid $10 and took the watch.

FAILED TO "MAKE GOOD."

Just thirty-four days later the stem broke as Minch was winding the watch. Mindful of the declaration of the jewelry dealer, Minch took the watch back. The dealer was sorry, but "couldn't make good." It would cost Minch $2 more for repairs. Minch left the watch.

As Minch was leaving the store the dealer suggested that Minch might be interested in a real bargain. He had a ring, he explained, on which another customer had paid a deposit. But the other customer had not returned for the ring. As a consequence of which Minch could have the benefit of the deposit, making the price of the ring only $28.

Minch paid the money and took the ring. Later he had it valued by another jeweler, who declared it was worth $8 and no more. In the meantime Minch has made four trips back for his wrist watch, being informed each time that it is not ready. The dealer says another firm is making the repairs.

WORSE THAN AUCTIONS.

According to those familiar with the inside of the business many of the cheap jewelry stores are little better and indeed some are worse than the cheap auction rooms. In some cases the same men run both auction rooms and jewelry stores, and juggle victims from one to another, bleeding them in both.

A man formerly connected with the business told an American reporter that he had known of cases where rings worth fifty cents had been sold to young men for as high as $50. In one such case which came under his observation, he said, the victim was buying an engagement ring.

Sense, ignorant of jewelry, and thinking he was getting a rare bargain, he paid $25 for a ring worth exactly fifty cents. A week later the ring had discolored the finger of the young man's fiancee. The net result was that the young man had not only lost his $25 but his bride as well.

Tells a Secret

Many people fear to take medicine to check and abort colds, cure coughs, catarrh, etc. This fear is groundless with all the products of The Blackburn Products Co., Dayton, Ohio. Not one contains opiates, narcotics or harmful drugs. Mentho-Laxene, for coughs, colds, catarrh and all distress following a cold, is a compound of Wild Cherry, Tolu, Canada Balsam, Menthol, Ammonium Chloride and alcohol sufficient to preserve and keep in solution.

Every ingredient is in concentrated form and the medicine is so strong that only ten-drop doses are to be taken in the "raw" state. But the ideal way is to make into syrup by emptying a 2½ oz. bottle of Mentho-Laxene into a pint bottle and then fill the bottle with granulated sugar syrup, made by dissolving a pint of sugar in a half pint of boiling water. It is said by thousands that this makes a most effective home treatment for all cold troubles. The manufacturer guarantees it to please or money back. Sold by all good druggists.—Advertisement.

THREW BOTTLES AND GLASS.

A new method of attack was adopted by the strikers today. They began to hurl bottles, glasses and other missiles from windows on the heads of loyal workers and police.

Three arrests were made for throwing a large missile at the police, two for attacking women workers and others for loitering.

At the mills today it was announced that $250,000 had been paid out to loyal workers. The mill owners feel confident of eventually winning the struggle now in progress.

As yet the authorities have not been able to secure any clews to the murderer of Biagio Verturro. City Marshal O'Brien is inclined to discredit the theory that Verturro was murdered as a result of his connection with the strike. On the contrary, he believes it to be the outcome of a gambling row.

In the Arlington Mills section the disorders were most pronounced, though there was an outbreak at the Pacific Mills, the first in that vicinity since the opening of the strike. Those arrested for throwing the missiles at the officers are: John Castra of No. 6 Hall street, Anna Temala of No. 122 Maple street, and Alice Grenda of No. 121 Lawrence street. This assault occurred at Lawrence and Chestnut streets.

Mary Gobbs of No. 159 Common street was arrested, charged with assault and intimidation on a woman at the Pacific Mills. Nellie Salonos of No. 128 Lawrence street and Julia Multranus were arrested, charged with creating a disturbance.

The strike this morning seemed to take the rise which has marked it during the preceding days. That some has resulted to the long meeting of yesterday, however. At the Pacific Mills conditions remain unchanged. Pickets are on duty throughout the city. The city ambulance awaits the hour when Mayor Murray will name his general committee of 150 to handle the situation. The beginnings of a war between the textile workers and the Lawrence Chamber of Commerce, the complete tie-up of operations between the central labor union and the general strike committee, and the initiation of a new attempt at a "Preparedness parade" are important features in the beginning of the fifth day of the Lawrence mill strike.

The hostilities between the Chamber of Commerce and the strikers were begun by Attorney Thomas G. Connelly of Boston, chief counsel for the strike committee, who declared to a crowd on Lawrence common that the "invisible government of the city was vested in the Bay State building, which is the Chamber of Commerce building.

Attorney Connelly and others of the strike leaders have expressed themselves as bitter against the Chamber of Commerce because of its "hostility to the Portuguese Committee." This is asserted by the strike leaders to be an attempt on the part of the commercial interests to break the strike.

WILL MAINTAIN ORDER.

The "Citizens' Committee" movement today finds expression in the appointment of a committee of 150 by Mayor Hurley, and is the beginning of an active campaign for the single purpose of maintaining order. The outstanding facts on the fifth day of the strike are:

The beginning of the Chamber of Commerce drive and the first attempt in the chamber by Chief Counsel Connelly.

The failure of the big mass meeting to result in the threatened disorder, which it had been freely predicted would follow the granting of a permit.

A quiet break between the Central Labor Union and the strike committee, following the stand of the Central Labor Union in favor of forty-eight hours work for forty-eight hours' pay.

The failure of the Central Labor Union to expel Socialist Branch and nine Kaplan strike leaders, who belong to the union, in accordance with the orders of the United Textile Workers of America.

The beginning of a movement for a parade of strikers, all to march, or else put the city government in the position of defying fathers in larger service men.

The denial by strike leaders of any such "constitution" telegram from the American Women Company officials as was mentioned in a Boston newspaper.

CHARGES GIRLS HIRED.

Attorney Connelly in the course of his attack upon the various city officials one of his statements was made that he had knowledge of an employment agency which sends girls about to throw red pepper to disorder the strikers.

Scores of policemen, including many from Salem, Cambridge and Lynn, reported for duty in Lawrence this morning, particularly in the vicinity of the Arlington Mills. There was also a detachment there from women pickets who have been displaying a spirit of defiance and resistance. Many of these have been called insulting names in the Arlington Mills section and charged with throwing missiles at police.

Strike leaders today estimate that more than 20,000 men and women are out of work, either as strikers or because strike conditions have made it impossible for them to work. The mill agents say this figure is absolutely exaggerated.

Attorney Connelly at the mass meeting on the Common delivered himself of some warm sentiments regarding the city officials and city leaders of Lawrence. In a speech alive with references to the strike of 1912, he said:

ACCUSES POLICE.

"The silent government of this city is situated in the Bay State. The police are starting all the violence in this strike, just as they did in 1912.

"I believe we could legally hold this parade without a permit, if anybody in this city government would allow us to live up to the law.

"I know of an employment agency which is putting girls out to throw red pepper and other things calculated to bring discredit upon the strikers."

Police Commissioner Cox calls the strikers foreigners, but he himself was born abroad.

"These people were all Americans when they went to the Boer War," he said, "but they are foreigners when they go out and are protesting for fairly good wages and hours."

The action of the Central Labor Union in demanding that the strikers be given work on the basis of forty-eight hours' work for forty-eight hours' pay was answered in the following telegram from Secretary Morrison of the American Federation of Labor:

"The Central Labor Union in making the demand presumed to use its influence to have the strikers return to work under the orders of the United Textile Workers of America.

"The organization is not to be used as a means of settlement, all to no purpose, as far as the city government is concerned, by offering favors to foreign service men.

"The denial by strike leaders of any such 'constitution' telegram from the American Women Company officials as was mentioned in a Boston newspaper."

Joseph Malkin, Symphony violoncello, will be home from his engagement was saved from a apartment house fire Thursday on Avenue by Roscoe Twiss of Engine 32. Has asked a fund for American to thank the fireman for him. Twiss modestly declined which Mrs. Malkin offered him after his act.

In a telegram to the American Mr. Malkin, who is now on a tour, said:

"Overjoyed at the exceptional rescue of my violoncello from the Chestnut street apartment house fire. Thanks to myself and my friends in both cities and who have enjoyed its mellifluous tones and the many people for whom my playing for have been served through the heroic act.

"I am prepared to give my fullest expression in recital as an artist's tribute to this act of grace. JOSEPH MALKIN."

WOULD FIGHT THE BRITISH EMBARGO

A committee protesting against the British embargo and urging the United States government to adopt economic measures if necessary, to end this "deadliest discrimination against American labor and business was filed with the House today by James J. Brennan of Lawrence.

The British move is particularly dangerous, Mr. Brennan asserted, in that it threatens to involve two of the greatest nations in the world in a trade war even before the peace treaty is signed.

Mr. Brennan said he would ask the legislature to refer the resolutions to a committee for a public hearing. The resolutions say, in part:

"Whereas, the British Empire has placed an embargo on the importation of certain American manufactured goods into the British Isles, and

"Whereas, we believe an embargo of this character discriminates against American industries and the products of American skilled labor that at the present time would tend to create international discord and disturbance, and

"Whereas, such arbitrary procedure should not precede the signing of the world war peace treaty, but if participate in unnecessary trade war between the United States and England, therefore, be it

"Resolved, that the General Court of the State of Massachusetts hereby requests that the State Department of the United States government accept a modification of such embargo or recommend the adoption of retaliatory measures, if needed, through congressional action."

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK CROSS, FEVERISH

Give "California Syrup of Figs" at once if bilious or constipated.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, feverish, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is full of cold, stop at once, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative"; they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—Advertisement.

NEW DISCOVERY TO BANISH INFLUENZA

London, Feb. 7.—Influenza and a number of other diseases may be robbed of their worst terrors for humanity as the result of discoveries made by British army doctors during the war. Considerable progress is reported by the British Medical Journal to have been made in the investigation, not only on influenza but also "trench fever," nephritis or inflammation of the kidneys, mumps, measles and typhus.

The newest discoveries are reported in a preliminary paper which has been presented by Major-General Bradford, Captain Bickford and Captain Wilson to the Director-General of the army medical service in France and published by the Medical Journal.

It is stated that the cause of infection of "trench fever," influenza and nephritis has been isolated and identified and that in each case the virus has proved to be a small globular cell, varying in size and behavior in the three diseases and able to pass through very fine filters.

It is believed also that the virus of mumps, measles and typhus also have been isolated, the causes of the diseases hitherto having been obscure and all attempts at the isolation of the bacilli having failed.

The importance attached to the discoveries by the medical experts is shown by the preparation of the preliminary report for The highest medical authorities in the army. It is pointed out that when the virus of a disease has been isolated and identified the preparation of an anti-dote is possible and probable.

HELP BOSTON AMERICAN'S BUREAU FOR MEN BACK FROM SERVICE

LEGAL EXPERTS GIVE FREE ADVICE

The Soldiers' Service Bureau of the Boston American is dedicated to the purpose of doing things for the soldiers and sailors of Uncle Sam. It is for officers and men alike. Answers to questions will be published in the American daily, and many personal services will be done for the soldiers and sailors as stated below.

The department is not merely operated as a question and answer column. It is co-operating with similar departments in Hearst's New York American, Chicago Examiner, Atlanta Georgian, San Francisco Examiner and Los Angeles Examiner. The headquarters is in Washington.

Attorneys will answer questions of a legal nature and undertake many kinds of legal work in the courts for officers and soldiers free in behalf of the Boston American and its associated Hearst newspapers.

Please write any suggestion you have for widening the activities of this department.

Address all communications to Soldiers' Service Bureau, Boston American, No. 54 Summer street, Boston. Letters mailed "confidential" will be so treated. Men of the army and navy, let us hear from you.

Persons finding the discharge papers of soldiers or sailors should make every effort to return them to their owners. A discharge paper cannot be duplicated. The War Department can only issue a certificate that the discharge has been given. Frequently the owner loses his original, and would greatly appreciate its return.

A—To outline, for purposes will be:

1—To conduct, in behalf of the officers and men of the army and navy, a legal bureau, with headquarters in Washington and with branches in each city where a Hearst paper is published.

2—To have the severe sentences of court-martial examined into to see if any injustice has been done, and to have the rights of all wrongs that may have been done to courts-martial.

3—To assist discharged soldiers, sailors and marines in procuring positions.

4—To list employers ready to hire discharged soldiers, sailors and marines.

5—To gain special medical attention for recently discharged men.

6—To work for the rapid discharge of soldiers within six months' pay in advance.

7—To help relatives find men in the service.

8—To hurry the settlement of allotments and the pay of officers and men of the army and navy where delays have occurred.

9—To provide information consistent with the nature of the bureau.

10—To aid in the formation of associations of veterans of any war, to list those formed and to assist them in working out their plans.

11—To arrange lodgings for visiting service men.

12—To give legal and seek personal aid where families of soldiers, sailors and marines are threatened with or involved in, litigation proceedings in any way due to the absence from home of the members of the fighting forces of the United States.

Soldiers and sailors should write at once if they are in any kind of trouble.

To the Honorable Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War:

The undersigned respectfully urge you to return to their homes as soon as possible the soldiers who have accomplished so brilliantly every object America had in the war.

We urge this as an act of simple justice by a great nation to its heroes.

BONUS FIGHT AID BY NATIONAL GRANGE

Oliver Wilson of Peoria, Ill., Master of the National Grange, representing 1,000,000 members throughout the United States, 40,000 in Massachusetts alone, has given his hearty endorsement of the Boston American's petition for six months' pay for soldiers.

Wilson telegraphed his position myself from his home in the West and declared that though the matter had not come before the Grange he believed that its great membership would heartily agree with him in his endorsement.

The Grange is one of the most powerful and most influential organizations in the country, including in its membership the farmers throughout the great Western States and those in the New England States.

LEADERS ENDORSE CAMPAIGN.

When this great organization arrays itself upon the side of any public or patriotic improvement it lends a weight that usually has the effect of bringing about the object desired.

Some of the best known men and women in New England are members of the grange, which has a strength of 200,000 in the six States. In Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York the membership in each state is approximately 100,000, and in the United States about one million.

Wilson's indorsement is added to nearly a score of indorsements by leading patriotic, veteran, civic and labor organizations in the New England States, representing hundreds of thousands of members. It shows as nothing else can show the feeling of the people of the New England and other States toward the petition which aims at recognition of the services of the fighting men. Other men and women belonging to that great organization of humanity, to the number of 16,000, have by their signatures indorsed the petition of the American.

Congressional action looking toward the passage of a bill to provide the six months' pay is expected soon. Many more things than mail have been reaching the Petition Editor on this account, and those who are circulating petitions are urged to have them in the hands of the editor as soon as possible in order that they may count in the total.

Demands upon the Soldiers' Service Bureau for the various forms of aid supplied to honorably discharged soldiers, sailors and marines, continue unceasingly. The soldiers or sailors' families are amazed at the quickness with which replies are received from the Washington headquarters. Many declare they had been waiting for weeks for such information after applying through the usual channels.

The Thomson-Crooker Shoe Company, manufacturers of women's and girls' shoes, has declared its willingness to co-operate in any measure to find employment for the returning boys.

This firm, which has a large factory at Roxbury Crossing, will give preference to soldiers and sailors over men who have not had service in the army or navy. In a letter to the American, a member of the firm writes:

"Boston American—Replying to your letter will state that we have already at several of our factories had a dozen of our employees come back from the front and local camps, and will be glad to put them on as quick as they show up. I believe we have a vacancy today and one Wednesday, and I need good shoemakers, whether they be our old employes or not. A soldier with experience will get the preference.

EAGER TO HELP HEROES.

"I will be glad to co-operate in any measure to find employment for the returning boys. This, in my opinion, is the least we might do.

"Thanking you for this notice, we are, "THOMSON-CROOKER SHOE CO."

FOOD PROFITEERS TO BE PUNISHED UNDER THE NEW STATE PROBE

Food Bill Calls for Thorough Investigation of High Cost of Foods

conducted by United States District Attorney Thomas J. Boynton, on information furnished by the American.

The federal probe is in immediate charge of Assistant District Attorney Daniel A. Shea. Agents of the Department of Justice in this district are pursuing the investigation, checking up prices and searching for any profiteers.

EGG DEALERS WARNED.

Another live angle of the food situation here is the sharp warning received by the Boston wholesale and retail egg trade, that profiteering on fresh and storage eggs is still illegal. The Boston Fruit and Produce Exchange included in its daily market circular yesterday the following announcement:

"Miss Eastman of the Massachusetts Food Administration notifies us of the following:

"Regulations as to profits on wholesale and retail sales of fresh and cold storage eggs remain as formerly. All regulations as to profits on all kinds and sales of poultry and butter have been removed."

Wendell Phillips Thore, author of the new legislative order for a food price probe, said, in addressing the House committee on Rules:

ACTION DEMANDED.

"In this case William Randolph Hearst should be considered not only as a citizen of New York, but as a citizen of Massachusetts. Through his newspaper, the Boston American, he is waging the fight which I properly up to you gentlemen of the Massachusetts Legislature, the fight for fair food prices for the people of Massachusetts.

"It would not be necessary for Mr. Hearst, it should not be necessary for one or for any private citizen to have to urge you to take up the fight. The interests of the people of Massachusetts demand it, and you are the servants of the people of Massachusetts. Your first duty as members of the Massachusetts Legislature is to care for the people of Massachusetts.

COULD SHOW DISCREPANCIES.

"I could go on and recite page after page of figures compiled by the Boston American to show the glaring discrepancies between the wholesale prices of the necessities of life and the prices charged by retailers in and around Boston for those same commodities. I will go on and read these prices if you gentlemen wish.

"The bill I have drawn up is in the form of an order directing the Attorney-General to investigate such discrepancies and if he finds that the excessive high prices are due wholly or in part to any unlawful conspiracy or any other breach of the law, to prosecute the offenders."

A member of the committee here asked if the Attorney-General hasn't the power to make such an investigation without a legislative order.

"I think the Legislature has the right to direct, yes even the right to order the Attorney-General to make such an investigation," replied Mr. Thore, "and I think this should be done without loss of time."

Representative James H. Brennan of Charlestown, rising to go on record in favor of the bill, said: "If the Attorney-General should find it, gentlemen, impossible for him to conduct such an investigation, I believe the matter is of such pressing and vital necessity that a committee of the Legislature should conduct such an investigation."

Representative Hartshorn (member of the committee): "I should like to ask the Representative why this bill is introduced now, after prices have started to go down. Why wasn't the bill put in earlier?"

FOOD GOING UP AGAIN.

Representative Brennan: "My understanding is that although prices began to tumble as a result of the American's crusade, they are going up again. I understand there is some manipulation of commodities going on. I understand that the foodstuffs are being held in the cold storage warehouses for foreign shipment, thus depriving the people of this commonwealth of them. The matter is most serious one, gentlemen. I believe that if necessary both branches of the legislature should join to conduct a most thorough and searching examination into it."

Speaker Joseph E. Warner here asked why the matter was not put in the form of a resolution for both branches of the Legislature to pass on.

"I object most strenuously to the form of the bill being changed to a resolve in comic before both branches," exclaimed Representative Thomas A. Niland, who formally introduced the measure to the committee. "The House of Representatives is essentially the representation of the poor people of the Commonwealth, and this bill is in the interests of the constituents of the House. I prefer to have it remain a House bill."

John L. Donovan, lately Democratic leader of the House, went on record in favor of the bill.

PEOPLE BEING ROBBED.

"There is today more food in cold storage than there has been at any time since records of food in storage have been kept," he said. "The retailers make no attempt to follow the wholesale prices. We learn, for example, that the wholesale price of such a commodity has fallen. But we look in vain for retail prices to follow suit. In any of the retail stores the goods are not marked with prices. The grocer 'sizes up' the customer and charges him as much as he thinks the customer can stand.

"Gentlemen, the people are being robbed right and left. Prices should go way down, and it is up to you gentlemen to start the ball rolling and see that the public gets a square deal."

Representative James E. Odlin of South Hadley, Democrat, Republican, also favored the bill, as did Representative Daniel J. Hayden of Lynn, another Republican. Representative George P. Webster of Haverhill, the Progressive leader in the House, with a few votes of the speakership of the House, was prevented from attending the hearing by illness, but sent in word that he wished to go on record as favoring the bill.

Thomas Fenelestin of East Boston, introducing himself as a citizen, made a powerful speech in favor of the measure. Among the other legislators who registered in favor of the bill were Representatives Carey of Dorchester, Robert E. Bigney of South Boston, John R. Fitzgerald and Senator Foley.

The committee on rules, the members of which heard the arguments in favor of the measure, consists of Speaker Joseph E. Warner, and the following Representatives: William A. Kneeland, Frank B. Lyman, H. Achin, Charles H. Hartshorn, Henry E. Dean, Frank Mulvey, Lloyd Makepeace, F. G. Allen, Michael A. Flanagan and M. H. Donnell.

WOMEN PRAISE FOOD FIGHT OF AMERICAN

Federal Agents Are Investigating Cases of Alleged Profiteering

Enlistment of the aid of every housewife by the Women's Municipal League and other women's organizations in support of the Boston American's campaign for lower food prices is now being sought as a means of discriminating against the food profiteer and above-market price food shops.

By watching the American's food prices closely and comparing the food prices at stores charging prices in excess of the market, housewives will be able to discriminate against such stores. Housewives are urged to get better acquainted with market prices and disseminate wherever possible among other housewives statements affecting stores charging prices in excess of the market.

Retail prices are generally holding firm, with a drop, however, on beans of 1 cent retail.

The marked difference in the price of butter at various stores is confusing to housewives. While in many of the neighboring cities the price is lower, the market in Boston continues to hold firm, with the best tub butter selling between 50 and 60 cents a pound.

Pork and lamb are a few cents higher, retail, with little promise of a reduction on this commodity. Eggs continue to hold firm, retail, although it was announced that the price wholesale took an advance of 5 cents a dozen. A slight drop is noticeable in the suburbs.

Agents of the Department of Justice in this district are investigating food prices in search of profiteers. This investigation by the Federal authorities was begun by United States District Attorney Thomas J. Boynton on information furnished by the American. Assistant District Attorney Daniel A. Shea is in direct charge of the investigation. Mr. Boynton has vigorously commended the American's efforts to secure reasonable food prices.

Officers of the Women's Municipal League today praised the American's food price campaign.

Mrs. William Scarborough Wheeler, chairman of the Food Department of the League and former member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, is enthusiastic over the work. She said:

"I have been trying to impress upon the members of the league the importance of failing to secure reasonable food prices and conditions. The work of the American was excellent, and it was due to that work that we inserted in the bulletin the notice to watch the papers for price change of bread."

PROBATION OF TWO ROXBURY BOYS REVOKED

Fallon, whither they became stranded, their sentences were revoked, the lads were put in charge of the Lyman School and the Gill boy to the Industrial School for Boys.

RANSDELL ACAIN HEAD OF HARBOR CONGRESS

Washington, Feb. 7.—Senator Joseph E. Ransdell of Louisiana, twelve times president of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, was unanimously re-elected at the annual convention here this afternoon. Mr. Thompson of Washington, D. C. and John I. Martin of St. Louis were re-elected secretary-treasurer and sergeant-at-arms respectively.

Says Fair Food Prices Are Up to Legislators

William Randolph Hearst should be considered not only as a citizen of New York, but as a citizen of Massachusetts. Through his newspaper, the Boston American, he is waging the fight which is properly up to you gentlemen of the Massachusetts Legislature, the fight for fair food prices.

You are the servants of the people of Massachusetts. Your first duty as members of the Legislature is to care for the people of Massachusetts.—Wendell P. Thore, speaking for bill to order the Attorney-General to investigate food prices.

PUNISHMENT IS METED OUT AT CAMP DEVENS

Great Barrington Boy Gets Six Months for Impersonating an Officer

By THOMAS F. PHELAN.

Camp Devens, Ayer, Feb. 7.—For impersonating an officer in the United States army while being absent without leave from his company, Private Frederick H. Cornell of Company No. 36, Depot Brigade, son of a real estate broker at Great Barrington, was sentenced to six months' confinement at hard labor and to forfeit two-thirds of his pay per month for a like period.

Cornell's company was known as the Provost Guard unit of the Depot Brigade. He left that organization last August and was apprehended by intelligence officers in Chicago in November. When arrested he wore the uniform of a second lieutenant.

Private William Cuney, 14th Battalion, is alleged to have struck Private George W. Francis, of that organization, over the head with a piece of wood. A court-martial board found him guilty, and he was sentenced to a month's confinement at hard labor and to pay a fine of $19 out of his pay.

Private Milton Brown, Company No. 36, Depot Brigade, found guilty of being absent without leave, was given three months in the guardhouse and to pay a fine of $15 out of his pay.

FOUR MONTHS IN GUARDHOUSE.

Private William H. Middleton, 12th Battalion, Depot Brigade, is alleged to have struck Corporal Herman J. Anderson. A trial board found him guilty and he was sentenced to four months in a guardhouse and to forfeit two-thirds of his pay during that period.

Peter J. Desmond, former employe of the circulation department of the American, was among twenty-nine men who arrived here today from Camp Devens, France. He is a member of the Trench Mortar Battalion. The men were placed in charge of Lieutenant Francis M. Flanagan, another former American employe.

More than 2,000 soldier and civilian guests have enjoyed two hours of fast milling at the Auditorium of the Young Men's Christian Association and listened to the Depot Brigade band play patriotic airs. The boats were evenly matched and two draws resulted. Another mill will be fought at the Auditorium Thursday night.

The purchase of the lake covered by this military reservation is considered to be the reason for a survey of the property now being made by a government civil engineer. The entire camp was surveyed once before, and no reason can be assigned for a new survey except that the government intends to take the land over permanently for its value in connection with military training.

PADDING FOR JUNK DEALER.

"What a paradise this would be for a junk dealer," said one officer. "He would find miles of copper wire, thousands of feet of piping, tons of plumbing fixtures and rubber boots. Why, the heating plant alone would be worth millions, would only bring a song as old iron. Nothing could be salvaged from more than twenty-five miles of the finest roadway, and could the sewage and sewage systems be turned into cash.

"If not universal military training, then for God's sakes let the country adopt universal vocational training and turn the barracks into workshops to teach every boy a useful trade."

FOUR HURT IN AUTO CRASH AT DEDHAM

Edward D. Parent, a chauffeur, another man and two young women were injured when an automobile in which they were riding crashed into a tree on West street, Dedham. The car was owned by Mrs. Mary C. Wallace of No. 82 Salisbury road, Brookline. The others in the party were Clifford E. Crocker, of No. 171 Harvard street, Brookline, and Teresa and Mary T. Madden, of No. 4 Franklin terrace, Brookline. All three were taken to the Emergency Hospital, Dedham, with the exception of Parent, who went home. The latter has a cut on his head.

PENNSYLVANIA'S COAL OUTPUT FOR 1918 HUGE

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 7.—Officials of the State Department of Mines estimated that during the year 1918 the mines of Pennsylvania produced 272,372,711 net tons of coal. Of this total there were 80,614,324 tons of anthracite and 191,758,387 tons of bituminous coal. The production in 1917 totaled 267,741,000 tons. In 1918 the number of anthracite miners employed 147,865 persons and the bituminous 172,600.

There were 1,044 fatal accidents in the coal fields during 1918, 440 of which occurred in the anthracite district.

WAR WORKERS NOT AFRAID OF BULLETS

Major Hammond of 26th Says Y. M. C. A. and K. of C. Men Did Wonderful Work

Major Thomas J. Hammond of the Second Battalion, 104th Infantry, who went over with the Twenty-Sixth Division and stayed through the whole campaign, has high praise for the work of the Knights of Columbus and Y. M. C. A. and other organizations, as well as the work of chaplains.

Major Hammond calls upon the public not to place too much credit in certain unsatisfactory reports about the different organizations at work over there.

"During my whole stay over in France with my regiment, I saw a great deal of the working of different organizations," he said. "I can't praise too highly the Y. M. C. A., and I know what I am talking about, for I came in close contact with their workers, and they were not afraid of bullets, by a long way. They were their workers right in the danger zone, doing their work either in minding to the wounded or keeping the 'pep' in many men.

K. OF C. DID WONDERS.

"I can't understand this criticism about them. I was in close touch with so many of their workers, and I know the value of their work.

"I can say the same of the Knights of Columbus, an organization which so well tested its adaptability to all kinds of work and did wonders at times when we all felt it was difficult to do very much.

"I've seen their work at Chemin Dames, Apremont, Nihrey, Chateau-Thierry and St. Hilliet.

"These two organizations, not forgetting the Salvation Army, should be named with honor, for they did well. They had hitches in some places I know, why judge the whole organization by these?

PRAISE FOR CHAPLAINS.

"Then I admire the work of the chaplains of women in the canteen service. You can't say too much for what the chaplains did. When they were not praying with the dying they were handing ammunition up to the front trenches.

"I heard special praise for Father John R. Du Valles of New Bedford. Why, that man was a 'peach' of a man. He did a wonderful work.

"Then let us give some praise to the thousands of women who labored night and day at so many occupations. Women who would jump at a mouse who were not afraid to go into danger zones and do much for the wounded."

Major Hammond will return to his law practice in Northampton and has been discharged from the army.

WANTS ITALIANS RESPECTED ON THE STAGE

Carrillo Says Days of Organ Grinder Impersonations Are Over

By FRED J. McISAAC.

Leo Carrillo has started a revolution.

The star of "Lombardi Limited" is not a Bolshevist, but he intends to overturn the stage methods of treating Italians.

"The Irish revolted successfully against the burlesque comedian with green whiskers, and the Italians are going to do it so that the American theatregoer's idea of their countryman is not a 'wop' with a hand organ and a monkey."

"I am of a mixed Italian and Spanish descent," said Mr. Carrillo. "It has been the joy of my life to convince managers that the American public will accept a different sort of Italian comedian than the banana peddler and the organ grinder.

ORIGINAL ROLE.

"When I first saw 'Lombardi, Ltd.,' the part of Lombardi was that of an effeminate French dressmaker. I refused to do a Frenchman, for I played the French valet in 'Potash and Perlmutter' with so much success that 'Lombardi' was written for me by the Hattons.

"I persuaded the authors to make Lombardi a cultured Italian artist who created in beautiful forms and tones instead of paints and marbles. They said: 'People will laugh at your Italian dialect, but you can make them take you seriously when you talk like that.'

"I think we have proved that American audiences can appreciate the serious and lovable side of the Italian character, and they are just as ready to sympathize with them to-day as though he didn't shatter the King's English.

"The thing which has pleased me most is the evidence of appreciation from Italians of Boston and New York. That they have approved my characterization and my dialect is best of all.

NEED PROPER VIEWPOINT.

"Just now it is particularly fitting that we get a proper viewpoint of our Italian allies. Some of the Allies have won such sweeping victories over their opponents on the Italian and their last drive into Austria unquestionably finished the resistance of Austria and indirectly caused the collapse of Germany, who felt she could no longer resist the French, American and English since her allies had given up the struggle.

"You can't blame people from judging other nationalities by what they see, and the laborers and peasants who live in the tenement districts far outnumber the middle class and aristocratic Italians who come to our shores.

"Nevertheless, it was the same sort of people as the railroad laborers and pushcart peddlers we see around us who scaled the Alps under the leadership of daring officers and carried the war into Austria's plains.

"So hats off to the Italian, and no more wop!"

LEO CARRILLO, star of "Lombardi Limited," who has won great success in role of an Italian muleteer.

It means that your selection is not confined to a lot of odds and ends and left-overs that nobody wanted, but that you can take your pick from an almost endless variety of the most desirable styles in sizes and proportions to fit men of all builds.

And when former prices were as low as ours were on this stock it means a much larger saving of real money than the actual price reductions show, because the original prices represented big savings in themselves.

Don't hesitate to buy whatever you expect to need for next winter. We see no possibility of prices being nearly as low then as they are now, and qualities can certainly be no higher than these we are now offering.

THIS is the anniversary of the birth in 1812 of Charles Dickens, one of the masters of English story writing. His work did much to abolish abuses in England. "Bleak House" exposed the Chancery travesty, and "Nicholas Nickleby" the outrageous school conditions. His best-liked book is "David Copperfield."

Market Weak in Afternoon; Coppers Are Steadier

STOCKS HEAVY FROM THE OPENING

Steel Foundries Showed the Largest Loss Among Steels or Equipments

By W. H. ROSS
Financial Editor

Stocks were weak in the afternoon, failing to rally during midday. But prices as a rule were above the lowest level of the morning. Fluctuations were fractional and the volume of trading in a supply of stocks was not large. Coppers were quicker and steadier than yesterday. Oils had a narrower price range than usual. Trading in steels was on a comparatively small scale. Motors had a receding tendency, aside from General Motor. But little attention was given to the announcement now with Baltimore & Ohio the weakest few specialties were strong from the start and closed with gains. Steel & Foundries showed the greatest loss among equipments, which were near or a shade. The issues had no especially distinctive feature.

AFTERNOON PRICE CHANGES.

Declines of 2 points or more included [illegible] at 88½, Baldwin Locomotive at 88, at 58, American Steel Foundries, at 89½, Car and Foundry, the at 89, Colorado Fuel & Iron, at 29½, Crucible Steel, at 59½, Sloss-Sheffield, at 49, Studebaker, at 49, Westinghouse Electric, at 43, General Electric, at 147, Inspiration Copper, at 43, General Motor, at 89, Goodrich, at 49, Railway Steel Spring, at 89, Republic Iron & Steel, at 89, Baltimore & Ohio, at 74½, Southern Pacific, at 94½, Southern Railway, at 29½, Union Pacific, at 129½, United States Rubber, at 74½, United States Steel, at 119½, Utah Copper, at 89, Virginia-Carolina Chemical, at 89, Western Union, at 89, Westinghouse Air Brake, at 89, Willys-Overland, at 89, Wilson & Co., at 89, Woolworth, at 89, Worthington, at 89.

IRREGULAR AT THE OPENING.

Prices were irregular by price irregularity at the opening and the tendencies was mixed and declines were the rule within a few minutes. Many of the active issues, including steels, coppers and a few specialties coppers were not so active as yesterday. Among the coppers Anaconda and American Smelting yesterday indicate that a demand existed for the rest of a half hour or so, but the rally was of no more effect than to steady the market. Trading was dull. Profits were small compared with the recent averages. It was evident that the public was not very little participation by the public could be detected.

SHORT ACCOUNT IS LARGE.

[illegible] short account is not large enough to inspire much confidence and that selling by the bears to depress prices has failed to cause liquidation to the extent looked for by the bull side of traders. Sentiment is more optimistic perhaps than might be expected in the face of so many discouraging factors. But the average operator is decidedly bearish in view and inclined to be aggressive on the short side, believing that stocks are not at bottom prices yet, if near it. Statements as to the number of the unemployed are disquieting great concern. Business reports this week have increased the gloom. There is much for the stock market to discount, and it seems to be making a thorough job of it.

Copper Wage Scale

It was stated in Boston yesterday "A new minimum basis of 18 cents a pound will be adopted by the copper industry as a basis for wages to be paid the mine workers. Word to this effect will be conveyed to the various copper camps as a result of conferences among producers, government officials and labor representatives.

Passengers on the Boston Elevated Railway Ought Not to Be Compelled to Pay ALL Expenses of the Boston Elevated

A BIT OF ADVICE TO THE PUBLIC

There is quite obviously a conflict of opinion, if not a conflict of interest, between the real estate owners and the general riding public concerning the question whether the latter shall bear all or only part of the cost of service on the Boston Elevated. The real estate interests seem very stupidly and selfishly determined that the passengers bear the whole expense, although it is perfectly evident that in doing so they pay more than the cost of the service rendered to them.

The amount which must be paid out of the 8-cent carfare for the interest and sinking fund requirements of the subways is greater than the amount which must be paid out in dividends to the stockholders of the Elevated Railway. Such part of the Elevated's financial burdens as goes to these sinking fund requirements is for the purchase of the subways. At the end of a very brief period now the city of Boston will own the subways, at the present rate of payments, free and clear; in other words, the real estate owners as well as the men and women who ride on the street cars will own these subways.

Moreover, the subways are a very large and important benefit to the real estate interests in Boston and to the general public, whether or not they ride on the Elevated system. Nobody thinks of charging the teamsters and the pedestrians and the automobilists who use our public streets a toll every time they use them. The public streets belong to the general public, are paid for out of the general tax levy, and are used freely by the public without special charge.

These streets can become so crowded as to become practically useless to everybody. That was the condition of Tremont street when the first subway was built. The subways have tended to relieve the streets, and the real estate interests and the general public have benefited to that extent at least by their construction.

A striking example of this fact is the business condition of lower Broadway, New York. For nearly seven years, for two miles on each side of the street was one continuous exhibition of "For Rent" signs and empty buildings, because the traffic congestion of lower Broadway was so intense that people would no longer go there. The completion of the Broadway subway has, to a very large extent, relieved these conditions so now that lower Broadway is coming back, and the buildings are filling up with tenants.

The real estate interests who own large public office buildings do not think of charging either those who hire offices of them or their customers for the use of the elevators, yet the elevators are just public highways for the rent payers of the building in exactly the same way and to exactly the same extent as our public streets and subways. It is not at all clear that a lower carfare or better service obtained through relieving the passenger of part, at least, of the subway expenses would not be better in the long run for the real estate interests. Nor are we prepared to admit that their judgment as to their best interests is the best judgment. Men are always inclined to let well enough alone and to be fearful of changes. That makes their judgment, when their own interests are at stake, often not the best.

However, the real estate interests are organizing to oppose any shifting of the subway burdens, and the American suggests that the public riding on the Elevated system would do well to organize also, to see to it that their just claims are not overlooked or denied.

Colonel Logan Vindicated

The restoration of Colonel Logan to the command of his regiment, which he led during the dangers of war and of which he was deprived when the danger and hardships were over and the honors were to come, is mighty good news for those who love justice and despise the works of a sneaking cabal which is always trying to permit its favorites to reap where they have not sown.

Colonel Logan's restoration to his command means, of course, that on consideration of his case in Washington by the Secretary of War and the General Staff it has been found that somebody in the army in France had done him an injustice.

The American adways believed that there were grave circumstances of suspicion in the nature of the charge alleged to have been made against Colonel Logan. He was, we understand, charged with being guilty of "inertia." The word itself is susceptible of so many interpretations that it is just the kind of a word a man would use who wanted to charge another with an offence of which the accuser would not have to bring proof if he were to be the judge as well as the accuser.

Massachusetts held her temper very well during the controversy concerning Colonel Logan. We waited patiently until the Secretary of War and the General Staff could get the facts and consider them. Our New England patience has been rewarded by the decision of the War Department exculpating Logan and restoring him to his honors after he had undergone the dangers and hardships.

This is another bit of evidence that we have a Secretary of War and a War Department that functions pretty justly in the long run.

IF NOTHING happens.
TO THE railroad train.
ON WHICH I am.
IN JUST an hour.
I'LL BE back home.
WHERE I used to live.
FOR YEARS and years.
AND AT the depot.
THERE'LL BE a boy.
AND AN automobile.
WILL BE waiting outside.
A SECOND-HAND car.
THAT THIS boy bought.
WITH MONEY he saved.
AND ON the way home.
WE'LL RUN out of gas.
AND WILL stop some place.
AND FILL the tank.
AND I'LL insist.
UPON PAVING the bill.
AND THE boy will holler.
BUT IN the end.
IT'LL BE my gas.
AND MAYBE tomorrow.
WE'LL GO for a ride.
AND BEFORE we're through.
I WILL have discovered.
THAT HE needs new tires.
AND I'LL think about it.
FOR A day or two.
AND THEN I'll ask him.
HOW MUCH they cost.
AND HE'LL tell me the price.
AND I'LL make up my mind.
TO BUY him one.
AND I'LL tell him so.
AND HE'LL protest.
AND SAY I can't.
AND I'LL insist.
HE CAN BUY them himself.

BUT IN the end.
I'LL BUY the tire.
AND EVERY year.
WHEN I come out here.
IT WILL be that way.
TILL HE'S grown up.
OR I go broke.
OR MAYBE get wise.
BUT I don't care.
BECAUSE HE'S named after me.
AND I'M his uncle.
AND THE first time I saw him.
HE'D JUST arrived.
ABOUT TWELVE hours before.
AND EVERY day.
FOR A dozen years.
I WATCHED him grow.
AND STAYED around.
WHILE HE wheedled me.
OUT OF any old thing.
I HAPPENED to have.
AND HE could find.
AND RIGHT this minute.
I CAN feel it coming.
DEEP DOWN in my bones.
THAT BEFORE I leave town.
I'M GOING to lose.
A LOT of things.
THAT I have in my trunk.
AND IF I don't.
I'LL BE so sore.
THAT I'LL never come back.

I THANK YOU.

Letters to the Editor

Italy and the Aegean Islands

Editor Boston American:

In an interview given to a New York paper by Captain Pietro Tozzi and Lieutenant Alberto Pecorini, it is evident that Italy intends to hold on to the policy of expansion at the expense of small nationalities. The Italian officers, among other things, said:

"Italy loves England, but if the English press continues to attack the Italian policy, and accuses Italy of imperialism because she refuses to let go the Greek Islands of the Aegean, the Italian people cannot help replying that the island of Cyprus held by England is a Greek island. If England occupies Cyprus, Italy will occupy the Greek Islands."

This sort of reasoning does not satisfy the Greek people of Epirus and of the Greek islands. The fact that the Greek race has once been injured by England does not justify similar injustice on the part of Italy. The fact that a person has been robbed once, does not make it just to rob him again and again. The question of northern Epirus and of the islands does not interest England, but Greece. The occupation of Cyprus by England was an injury done to Greece, not to Italy. Italy, in claiming the right to occupy the Greek islands, is not avenging any wrong done to her by England. Such reasoning is incomprehensible to those who labor yet under the naive impression that the great European allies have been fighting for the emancipation of the small races from the greediness and the domination of the great powers.

Thank God America is of a different mentality.

N. J. CASSARVETES,
Secretary Pan-Epirotic Union in America.

Experienced Only

Editor Boston American:

I have been studying rather closely the present situation relating to employment for the returning boys and do not wonder in the least at the growing acuteness after perusing the "Help Wanted" columns of the daily papers.

I notice advertisements qualified by such phrases as "experienced," "strictly experienced, others need not apply," etc.

The employers and business men appear to have forgotten the day when the boys left home and all to defend their country. Were they experienced in the art of warfare?

No, but they proved to be the making of the finest army and navy the world has ever witnessed.

Away with these "German Efficiency" ideas and take a chance on one of Uncle Sam's winners.

I would suggest as an appropriate fall piece for these advertisements calling for strictly experienced help, "conscientious objectors, enlistment and draft dodgers take notice."

I grant that there are many positions advertised where it is obvious that experience is absolutely necessary.

It is also obvious that an inexperienced man with an ordinary gift of brains could fill the majority of these "highly prized and highly remunerative positions," where only "strictly experienced" men are required.

INEXPERIENCED.

Anti-Tobacco

Editor Boston American:

I am a "constant reader" of the American. I have filed two score of your prime editorials, that with one stand dangerously near the "top." But Holy Moses! yours of January 4 is the limit; it reminds me of the cow that acquired an exalted reputation as a milk producer, that with one fell kick upset the whole. I claim that no ill-mannered persecutor has a right (in ethics) to pollute with his favorite odor the portion of the atmosphere, to which I have an "inalienable right." If the tobacco set wishes to gratify his weakness and degrade himself to the status of a fragrant sachet, his imposition of it upon cleaner persons of normal sensibilities should become an act of outlawry. He should not be allowed to defile the air under any roof where any person of any age objects. The right the tobacco slave cherishes can only be justified way back among savages.

If a practical joker were to enter one's editorial sanctum dangling a fresh skunk, he would be subject to the law, though the more wholesome than the weed,—and this is America,—the land of "Democracy!"

Every physician above mediocrity knows, without consulting any aborigine, that the narcotic drug, tobacco, has many medical properties and that strangely and inconsistently, its weak victim can buy the poison legally (!) without obtaining due license of the Internal Revenue Department. Is it because the nasty drug helps enslave the masses?

Protecting tobacco is akin to protecting dogs in some States resulting in ruin to the sheep industry. Yours for progress and cleanliness.

FACTS THAT ALL SHOULD KNOW ABOUT A COMPASS

By Garrett P. Serviss

KINDLY inform me whether or not a south magnetic pole exists, and also the workings of the magnetic compass in either case. Your explanation will settle a longstanding argument on the subject.—E. H. K.

Yes, a south magnetic pole exists, and its location was last determined by the Shackleton expedition of 1909. It was then at 72 degrees, 25 minutes south latitude, and 155 degrees, 16 minutes East longitude, lying in that part of the Antarctic Continent which faces Australia. The location of the north magnetic pole has not so recently been determined, the observations of Sir James Ross in 1831 being still used. He found the pole at 70 degrees, 05 minutes North latitude, and 96 degree, 46 minutes West longitude, in the northeastern corner of North America.

If you will take a globe and mark these two points on it, you will see that the magnetic poles not only lie far from the geographic poles, which are the ends of the earth's axis of rotation, but that the magnetic poles are not exactly opposite to one another, as the geographic poles are. A straight line piercing the earth from one magnetic pole to the other would not pass through the earth's centre, or touch the axis of rotation, but would run askew to the axis of the globe which carries the Pacific Ocean.

A Popular Delusion

The magnetic compass has so great a repute everywhere that it seems impossible to destroy the popular delusion that it indicates the true north and south line. It does that only along two irregular lines on the earth's surface, one running longitudinally through the eastern half of America, cutting the Great Lakes, and the other similarly crossing eastern Europe.

Everywhere between these lines (called isognals, or lines of equal magnetic declination) the needle points east or west of true north, according to the location with regard to and the distance from the isognal lines. Besides, the compass needle is subject to many disturbances, such as those produced by deposits of iron or magnetic ore, which may greatly change its direction or pointing. In a word, nobody should rely upon the indications of a compass unless he has the most trustworthy means of correcting them.

All that can usually be expected from it is that it will give a fair general idea of which way north and south lie. What makes the case still worse is the fact that the magnetic declination—i. e., variation from the north-south line, at any place—slowly changes, so that new observations are continually required to keep the magnetic charts that show the declination up to date, or as nearly so as possible.

Fixing Location

The location of the magnetic poles is determined by observations of the behavior of the needle as it is carried near to and around them. As one or the other of the magnetic poles is approached, the dip, or downward inclination of the needle, increases. In ordinary compasses, for ordinary use, the needle is so balanced that the dipping tendency is mechanically corrected, but for magnetic explorations a special form of compass is employed, called the dipping-needle, which is suspended on a horizontal axis, so that it can turn in a vertical plane. When such a compass is directly over one of the magnetic poles, the needle points straight downward, indicating that the lines of magnetic force at that point run vertically into the earth. A general idea, but not an accurate one, can be obtained of the distance of the magnetic pole from the place of observation by noting the dip of the needle. The dip also shows that the polar centre of force rises inside the earth and not on the surface.

No more striking proof of the wide difference between the geographic poles and the magnetic ones can be had than the fact that a compass needle carried across the space, more than a thousand miles wide, that intervenes between the north geographic pole and the north magnetic pole will, when it is on a line between those two poles, turn its "north end" toward the south, and its "south end" toward the north.

Plutocracy Lost the War
Thus Far Shalt Thou Go
God's Judgment
Prophylaxis for Bolshevism

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1919.)

It wasn't ONLY Germany that lost the great war, says an intelligent Italian officer, just arrived in America. The war was lost by Germany, by the Hohenzollerns, by the Junkers and the plutocrats of Germany. It was also lost by the plutocrats of the whole world. The plutocrats of Germany, from the Emperor down, already know that they have lost the war. The plutocrats of the rest of the world have still to find it out.

Little by little plutocracy is learning.

It gets information in the strike news from London. The British government is great, but it is run more and more by its dissatisfied workmen, and only the beginning is seen.

United States plutocracy learns, in a small way, that it lost the war when it finds it has to pay the bill in income tax. There is dodging done, as will be shown later. There is the charming scheme of paying stock dividends instead of cash as a tax-dodging measure. There is one decision in its favor already, and in favor of the Standard Oil. But the dodging will only be temporary. It will be remedied. THE TAX WILL BE PERMANENT.

The peace league as outlined includes a "thus far shalt thou go and no farther, and here shall thy proud waves be stayed"-sort of program. Each nation will be told, "These are your boundaries. If you go outside the nations will fight you." There will be an arbitration plan and other schemes for arranging disputes.

Always men have had trouble and queer ways in settling quarrels. There was "the judgment of God" method. The plaintiff and the defendant would fight to the death. God was supposed to watch and see to it that the just claimant won. Cripples, women and weaklings could choose someone to fight for them.

There was the test with hot water. If you dipped your hand in the boiling water and were not scalded when you took it out you were innocent. There was the test of walking on red hot plough-shares. If you walked over them barefoot without being burned you were innocent. One lady submitted to this test and came out triumphantly. An indignant friend had painted the plough shares red. They were not hot at all.

There was the test by throwing the accused into a pond. If she or he floated, the verdict was guilty. If the accused sank, the verdict was innocent, but not satisfactory to the innocent.

It is said that under the League of Nations arbitration plan Japan will demand arbitration in regard to exclusion of Japanese from the United States. Diplomatically the United States might say to Japan, "We refer you to your dear ally, England, with whom you have the treaty. You are not admitted into New Zealand or Australia or Canada. British subjects of India, of whom there are hundreds of millions, are not allowed in the British colonies. After you have settled your quarrel with Great Britain, your intimate friend, come to us."

The six billion tax budget is in —just sixty dollars for every one of the hundred millions of men, women and children in the United States. If the country were only going to spend SIX billions, that would be pleasant. But the nation will need for its bills twelve thousand millions in addition to the six thousand million tax bill. War is expensive, especially when it is over.

Lieutenant-Colonel Searle Harris, sent by the United States to investigate conditions in Germany, makes a report that ought to satisfy the most bitter hater of the German people.

Tuberculosis and skin disease are everywhere. Children are dying rapidly, shop girls have lost from ten to forty-five pounds in weight, and all the inhabitants show lack of vitality. Lieutenant-Colonel Harris officially expresses the opinion that "Germans who over-ran France should be punished and permitted to starve, but not the women and children. Hungry men and women do not make good neighbors."

Wild stories continue to come out of Russia. The latest is that three hundred thousand noblemen have been killed by the Bolsheviks. Nobody knows exactly what truth or falsehood there is in all the Russian stories, but the yarn about the three hundred thousand murdered noblemen is partly disposed of by the fact that there are not so many noblemen in all Russia. And it would take a long time to murder three hundred thousand, even with the best will in the world, with the three hundred thousand consenting.
